

GLASS STOPPING A HURDLE PLAY.

Dr. Cyrus Edson Says the Power of a Man Like Glass to Do Injury Is Simply Enormous.

What would happen to the average young man if he bucked up against Glass, the giant Yale guard, who is easily the most formidable player on the gridiron to-day?

A broken collar bone or a fractured arm or leg would be the least injury the other man might hope to get off with were he tackled and thrown by Glass, and some of the seasoned, trained players of Harvard may not come out of the game to-day as sound as ever if they attempt to brush by the Yale man or to stand in his way when he goes charging through the line to make a hole for his man with the ball.

Glass has about three times the strength of the ordinary man, and for months he has been trained to use it to the greatest advantage.

Dr. Cyrus Edson tells what a man might expect when he met the big son of Eli. His words better tell the power of the Yale guard.

BY DR. CYRUS EDSON.

His power to do injury is simply enormous, and an untrained man would be constantly in danger of losing his life to play against him. The shock of running against such a mass of bone and flesh would be sufficient to cause concussion of the brain or a rupture of different portions of the anatomy.

A football player is protected to a great extent against injury, and besides that his physical condition tends to prevent injury. A man in a good shape is even less liable to have a bone broken because he is quicker and can turn and twist so as to fall with the least chance of being hurt.

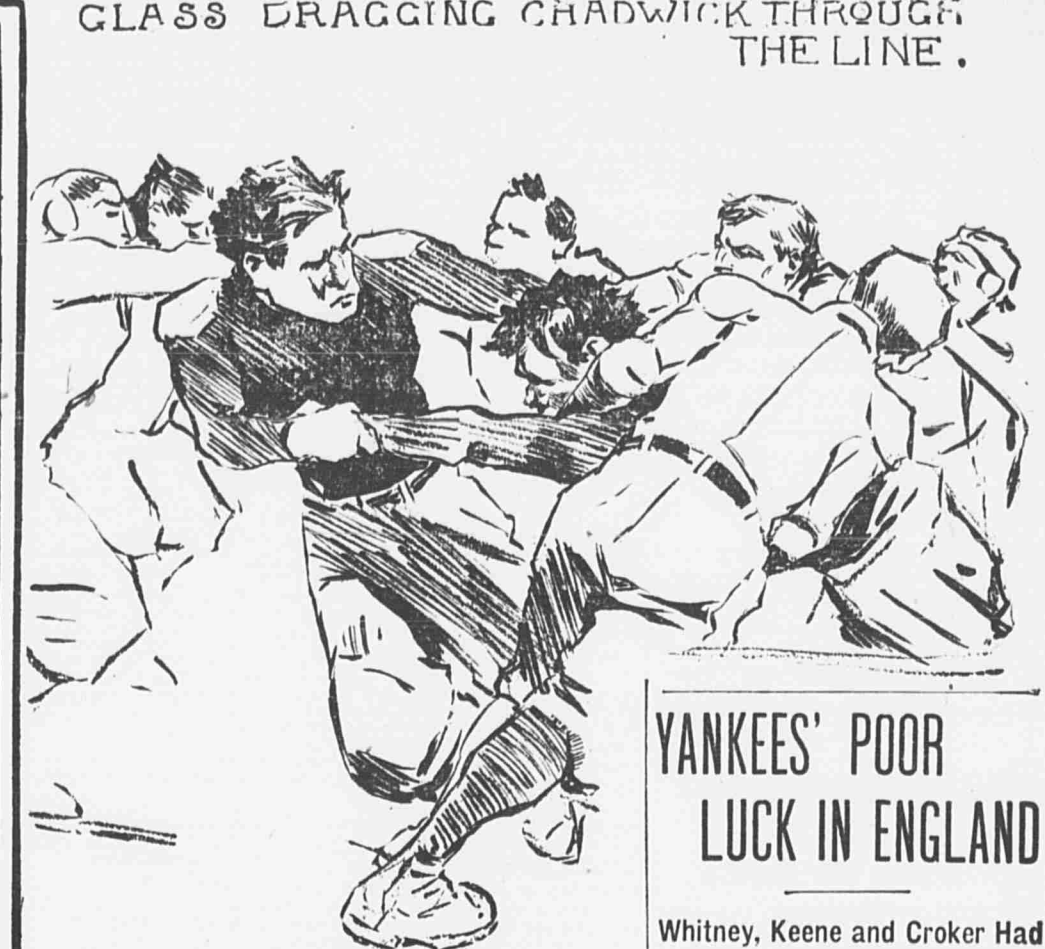

A player's stomach is not well protected, however, and that is where a man is liable to be hurt in the scrimmages.

When the game is in progress the physical exhaustion is great and a player will lose five or ten pounds in the hour and ten minutes' play. With men tiring rapidly towards the end of the game they are not as able to withstand the attacks of the more powerful players like Glass, and it is then that they are more liable to be injured.

YANKEES' POOR LUCK IN ENGLAND

Whitney, Keene and Croker Had Little Success on Turf—Maher Makes Fine Record.

LONDON, Nov. 22.—The flat-racing season of 1902 was concluded at Manchester to-day. What is known as "Septre's Year" has not been marked by anything pre-eminently sensational either in the way of success or scandal. Sir Blundell Maple heads the list of winning owners, and W. Lane the list of winning jockeys, and Maher scores as the winner of the largest aggregate amount of stake money.

American owners had ill-luck throughout the season. Foxhall Keene was practically without a win. W. C. Whitney's Ballantine won him the Cesarewitch the second year in succession. Otherwise his successes were not notable. His Derby winner, Volodyovski, was a rank disappointment, and kept up its losing record to-day, being unplaced in the Manchester Handicap, though prominently backed.

Richard Croker had a similar lack of success. St. Maclean Wins Big English Race. LONDON, Nov. 22.—At the Manchester November race meeting to-day the November Handicap was won by St. Maclean. St. Aldegonde was second and Scullion third. Fourteen horses started.

MANY CHAMPIONS TO MEET IN GAMES.

Athletic Meet of Twenty-second Regiment A. A. Gives Promise of Being Best of the Season.

Everything is in readiness for the annual games of the Twenty-second Regiment to be held in the armory, Broadway and Sixty-eighth street, on Monday night, and the meeting bubbles over with features of an interesting athletic nature.

Among others are the Columbia class relay race; the match race of P. J. Walsh, the national champion, and W. S. Edwards, of local fame; Ray Ewry's attempt to create new records at the standing high jump and high-and-kick; and the 600-yard handicap, open to Military Athletic League members.

AF these sports will also be determined the make-up of the regimental relay team which will represent New York at the Buffalo meet on Dec. 6. The other events include handicaps from seventy yards to one mile, hurdle races, bicycle events, shot putting and medley and obstacle races. The sports will begin at 8.30 o'clock.

COLUMBIA PLAYERS ROUNDING INTO SHAPE.

New York Football Players Expect to Give Syracuse a Hard Game. Coach Morley is greatly pleased with the victory Columbia gained over Annapolis on Wednesday and says that his men are working as never before this season.

The crimples are fast rounding into shape, and when the wearers of the blue and white meet the Syracuse eleven on the gridiron at the Polo Grounds next Saturday the up-State boys will have to hustle to win.

N. Y. UNIVERSITY TO PLAY UNION COLLEGE TO-DAY.

Two Elevens Will Decide on Ohio Field Last Year's Tie. New York University's eleven will line up against the Union College team to-day at Ohio Field, University Heights.

The coaches have every confidence in the ability of the university boys to win. Last year they played a tie with Union. This year the back field is much stronger than last.

The team was given light practice yesterday while the undergraduates cheered from the bleachers. The game will be started with the work.

MIDDIE FIGHTS HARD FOR LIFE.

Young Aiken, Who Underwent Delicate Brain Operation, Is Progressing Favorably.

(Special to The Evening World.) ANNAPOLIS, Md., Nov. 22.—Though Middleman Hugh Aiken is resting very comfortably and progressing as favorably as might be expected in his case, there is no material change in the injured young man's condition from that of yesterday.

Septic fever, which is the only dangerous complication to be feared, has not yet developed, and the surgeons say this is favorable for the patient's condition.

REFEREE FOR BIG MATCH WILL BE CHOSEN TO-DAY.

"Sailor" Tom Sharkey Will Advise Carroll in Bout with Jenkins.

When Joe Carroll, the champion wrestler of Ireland and England, goes on the mat with Tom Jenkins at Madison Square Garden on Tuesday night to wrestle for the catch-as-catch-can championship of the world he will have the services of Tom Sharkey, the noted boxer, as his adviser.

The "sailor champion" is no novice at the game of the mat. Not only has he engaged in several minor wrestling bouts, but he met Jenkins for the championship of the world a couple of years ago in Cleveland. There is not a move the champion can make that Sharkey is not familiar with, and therefore his advice will be invaluable to the Irishman.

There has been a big demand for tickets at the game. Tickets have been placed upon sale at all the leading hotels and sporting resorts. The referee for the contest is to be chosen today by the managers of the two men.

BROWN WILL PLAY DARTMOUTH TO-DAY.

Game at Manchester, N. H., Arouses Great Enthusiasm. MANCHESTER, N. H., Nov. 22.—The most important football game of the season in this part of the country is to take place this afternoon between Dartmouth and Brown University teams.

As a result the town is football mad. The entire city is decorated with green banners and flags. It is expected that one of the largest crowds that ever witnessed a game here will be on hand.

The betting is 5 to 4 in favor of Brown.

PIENING FAILED TO WIN FROM EEL-LIKE BOTHNER.

If there is a wrestler in all this world who is contemplating making a match with George Bothner, the clever little instructor, he had better start in right now and learn how to hold on to an eel. If he doesn't do this he cannot hope to win.

John Piening, the "Butcher Boy," can testify to the fact that eel practice is one of the necessities of preparing for the match. Bothner, who has been working to a bout with Bothner, Piening did not know it, though, before last night, and, as a result, he failed to do what he bargained to do—throw Bothner four times in an hour. He threw him only twice, and that was the limit. Bothner was too eel.

The "Butcher Boy" would have stood a better chance to take a grip on a greased pig. Bothner was in danger often, but he wriggled out as gracefully as would a snake. And every time 3,000 or more persons in attendance broke loose with a roar of cheers.

In a word, the contest was the greatest wrestling match New Yorkers have witnessed in years. It demonstrated that the sport can prosper without the importation of the "terrible" natives of Turkey.

Even though Piening did not throw Bothner four times in an hour he covered himself with glory. The catch-as-catch-can style is not his, and in the end he did not lose anything. He was a good deal of a success in the match, but he was not a success in the match. He was a good deal of a success in the match, but he was not a success in the match.

CUP YACHT'S FIRST SPIN SET FOR MAY.

BRISTOL, R. I., Nov. 22.—If C. Oliver Iselin's plans regarding the building of the new cup defender are carried out the yacht will have her first tuning-up spin early in May. Mr. Iselin has been studying the plans of the new defender and hustling the work of construction.

The lead keel, it is understood, will be run on Monday, which is about four weeks earlier than the keel of the Constitution was run and the new boat should be ready for launching earlier in the season than the last boat.

If Mr. Iselin's plans carry, the yacht will have about three and a half months for racing and tuning-up before the first international event.

TO DROP YALE, HARVARD'S PLAN.

If Crimson Team Wins To-Day at Football Athletic Relations May Be Severed Forever.

After to-day's football game at New Haven between Yale and Harvard, athletic relations between the two universities may be severed. If the Cambridge team wins the game, such a change is likely to come to pass, but if Yale wins, the wearers of the crimson will hardly care to break away.

Such are the existing conditions as they are understood between the undergraduates of the two colleges. The subject was much commented on by members of the University Club last night. One member who seemed to understand the difficulties well said that the whole thing in a nutshell was that Harvard is more than anxious to drop Yale. He attributed the cause to the desire of the Cambridge trustees to effect an agreement with Cornell for mutual participation in all branches of sport.

"Harvard feels none too kindly toward Yale," he said, "but if Yale should win to-day's game and Harvard should break off her relations, it would seem too much like an inability to stand a beating with equanimity. However, if Harvard wins, she will be in a position to dictate to Yale."

"The whole matter of strained relations between Yale and Harvard goes back for a long while. That has been no secret. The partial culmination of the matter came last year in the Cutts affair, which created much indignation and hard feeling among Harvard undergraduates. Then there was the case of Glass at Yale, and that stirred up both parties in the controversy. Then this year the disqualification of Schick, and the consequent award of the annual intercollegiate track championships to Yale added fuel to the flame at Harvard. Then followed the disqualification of King, Harvard's center, due, some say, to unofficial protests by Yale. And now this business of dropping Yale."

After this the question of Glass's professionalism cropped up again, and it was decided that Harvard was not prepared to accept any great outburst of brotherly love at Harvard. Altogether, from the point of view of the Harvard men, the relations cannot conflict their athletic relations without this petty bickering.

As to the situation at present, I am told that the contemplated trip of the Cornell "varsity" crew to Haverhill, N. H., to meet the Harvard crew, is being arranged for all branches of athletics, especially in football and rowing. In this connection it is possibly very significant that Yale and Harvard are not now playing football under a five-year agreement, as usual, but are meeting merely by temporary arrangement. Believing that they know the plans of Harvard and Cornell, the Yale football team is determined to win the game to frustrate the schemes of their opponents.

The day will bring forth must be of interest to every man in college athletics. The day will bring forth must be of interest to every man in college athletics. The day will bring forth must be of interest to every man in college athletics.

DAILY WON BOUT IN 20 SECONDS.

BALTIMORE, Nov. 22.—Joe Tipman, the promising fighter of this city, who was regarded as a worthy opponent for even barring Champion "Young Corbett" or Terry McGovern, had his career cut short last night in the first round of the battle with a right hand swing on the jaw. The contest was one of the shortest on record.

When the bell rang for the battle to begin the boys ran out of their corners and immediately began feinting for an opening. Daily backed Tipman into his corner and feinted at him with his left. As Tipman moved forward, Daily landed a terrific right swing on his jaw, dropping him to the floor, where he was counted out by Referee Billy Roche, of New York. The bout only lasted twenty seconds.

HART AND O'BRIEN WILL FIGHT AGAIN.

Middleweights Agree to Meet in Another Bout on or Before Dec. 22 in Philadelphia.

"Philadelphia Jack" O'Brien, the clever middle-weight boxer, and Marvin Hart, of Louisville, who fought a most vicious contest of six rounds in Philadelphia on Wednesday night, will meet in another six-round bout within the next four weeks. They were matched last night to box at 170 pounds, weigh in at the ringside. The club offering the largest purse will get the contest, which will be fought on Dec. 22.

Many Clubs Want Bout. This promises to be a lot of bidding between the various clubs in the Quaker city for the contest. Every matchmaker is anxious to secure it. The great battle the men put up in their previous encounter is the cause for so many bids. Matchmaker Joe Macias, of the Penn Art Club, has offered the men 70 per cent of the gross receipts. The Washington Sporting Club has also offered the men the same amount. It is expected the latter club will secure the bout because it is more centrally located than the Penn Art Club.

Bernstein Fights To-Night. Joe Bernstein, the east side boxer who fought Sammy Smith, of Philadelphia, a six-round bout in the Quaker City last night, will take part in another contest to-night. His opponent will be Eddie Lenny, the crack little fighter from Chester, Pa., who made such a good fight against "Young Corbett" for six rounds in Philadelphia a few weeks ago. They will box at a boxing show at Chester, Pa. Bernstein is fighting good just now, and will doubtless give Lenny a hard fight.

Terry McGovern, the ex-feather-weight champion, will be matched in a few days to meet Jack McEllean, the Pittsburgh fighter, who knocked out Tommy Sullivan, of South Brooklyn, in twelve rounds. Sam Harris, manager of McGovern, wired Matchmaker Charley Haughton, of the West End A. C., of St. Louis, last night, telling him that he could consider a match with McEllean if he would offer a suitable purse. As Haughton is anxious to get McGovern to fight at his club, there is no doubt that he will do as requested.

Benny Yanger, the feather-weight, of Chicago, now training for his fight with "Kid" Herman at the American A. C., of Chicago, on Monday night, may soon take a trip to England. The boy's manager received an offer from the National Sporting Club, of London, through his New York representative, offering Yanger a match with Ben Jordan, the English feather-weight champion, to take place some time about the holidays, but it is not yet decided whether for a guaranteed purse and possibly a side bet.

Harry Forbes, of Chicago, the bantam-weight champion of the world, is expected to fight Abe Attel, the clever California feather-weight, a slashing six-round draw in Chicago, has been matched to fight Frankie Neil, the reigning little-bear of California. They will battle for twenty rounds before one of the clubs on the coast on Dec. 26. Forbes and his manager will leave for "Frisco" on Dec. 10.

Tommy Pett, the crack little bantam-weight fighter, and Jimmy Sims, the promising little fighter of the Avonia A. C., who recently secured a decision over Pete Brooks, the Boston feather-weight, in a six-round bout in Boston, will be matched in a few days to meet in a six-round bout before either the Criterion or Lenox A. C., of Boston.

Eddie Connelly, the hard-hitting welter-weight, of England, is in good shape for his twenty-round bout with Jack Palmer, the English middle-weight, which will be decided before the National Sporting Club, of London, on Monday night. They will meet at the middle-weight limit, 155 pounds, for a purse of $1,000 and a side bet of $500.

AMERICAN LEAGUE ON MANHATTAN ISLAND.

That's What Dan Johnson Tells Chicagoans After Trip East. CHICAGO, Nov. 22.—Dan Johnson, President of the American League, says that his league will positively have a team playing on Manhattan Island next season. In speaking of the matter Mr. Johnson said that on his trip to New York the deal had been practically closed.

"We have the necessary leases," said Johnson, "and the deal is now only a matter of time. I cannot disclose the location we have secured until the details are settled."

FOREIGNERS HERE FOR SIX-DAY RACE.

Cyclists of All Nations Will Compete in Big Event at Madison Square Garden.

Foreign bicycle men are enjoying the wonders of New York to-day. Tomorrow they will begin active training to prepare for the coming six-day race at the Garden.

Most of the men who will represent the other nations in the long grind arrived this morning on the St. Paul. Among those who came were Emil Doring and Richard Heller, of Switzerland; Pett Brenton and Louis Dragon, of France; Emil Losten and M. Barquin, of Belgium; Karl Kaser, who will ride with Gougoltz in the German-French team; Bruin, who will ride with Bulson, and Koffman, who will be one of the pacemakers.

Gougoltz and Bulson will not arrive until next week, and with them will come Michael, Bald and Elkes. These are the riders who were signed in France by Jim Kennedy. They will train at Sheepshead Bay until the beginning of the race.

Honolulu has been sold to H. C. Schulz and will be sent to New Orleans with the rest of his stable.

The programme books for the last six days of the Washington meeting are out, and meet with general commendation except from owners of huddlers. Owners of five-year-olds and upward cannot get in lower than 150 pounds in the two hurdle races still to be run, although they enter at the lowest price, $100. This weight will break the backs of some of the crimples in this game.

After Echo Dale won the opening race Bill Daly took a prominent position near Auctioneer McDowell, and the crowd gradually increased, anticipating a run up. But, although Echo Dale was entered for only $500 Daly suddenly took another think, and walked away before the sale had begun.

The noted racehorse and stallion Jim Gray, winner of many classic races, by Ten Broeck, dam Alice Gray, sister to the dam of the sensational Domino, owned by A. D. Payne, Anita Stud, Charlottesville, Va., and ten yearlings, also owned by Pitts & Dorrier, Scottsville, Va., are at Lexington and will be at the Fall and Spring Co's thoroughbred sale, which begins next Monday.

Pink Coat, the American Derby winner in 1895, has broken down completely, and will never be raced again. He will be shipped in a day or two to the Woodford & Buckner farm, near Paris, Ky., to go into the stud for the season of 1903.

Trainer Garrison, of the Lakewood stable, had friends who did not let Setakut run loose, and they warmly congratulated "the Snapper" after Setakut's clever win. The Canadians also backed the Ziegler castoff.
